PRESENTER:

Lisa Bednarz,
LCSW, CMAC, ACM-SW, ASW-G

Lisa Bednarz, LCSW, CMAC, ACM-SW, ASW-G, is the Regional Director of Case Management for Robert Wood Johnson Barnabas Health.

Lisa began her career serving as a community guardian for incapacitated older adults before joining New York-Presbyterian's distinguished geriatrics team, and ultimately moving fully into healthcare leadership. She has front-line experience navigating the intersection of the healthcare and legal systems and uses this knowledge to educate physicians on ethical issues in gerontology, including capacity assessments and elder abuse. She has developed and implemented screening tools and response protocols to address elder abuse within the acute care setting. Lisa has advanced training in trauma-focused care, family systems, and healthcare management. She is a former Hartford Fellow in Geriatric Mental Health and a former advisor for the Vulnerable Elder Protection Team at Weill Cornell Medical College. Lisa operates a small geriatric care management practice and acts as a consultant and speaker on psychosocial health in the aging population and ethical decision-making in work with cognitively impaired clients. Lisa lives in New York City with her family.

Healthcare Decision-Making: Informed Consent, Capacity, and Free Will (oh my!)

AGENDA

5:45 PM ET – 6:00 PM ET:	Log in and Virtual Networking
6:00 PM ET – 8:00 PM ET:	Presentation
8:00 PM ET – 8:15 PM ET:	Door Prizes

Informed consent is a critical aspect of patient autonomy and respecting the dignity and worth of our patients. The consent process empowers patients to make informed decisions about their own care, treatment, and participation in medical research. There is an art and craft to high quality informed consent, often lost in the increasingly virtual, fast-paced healthcare environment. Within the informed consent process, there is an assumption that the patient has the ability to process the information they are receiving, weigh the benefits and consequences, and make a knowledgeable decision. When there is concern about the patient's insight and judgment during this process, the next step is a capacity assessment. This presentation will begin with a discussion of best practices and principles of informed consent and then move into a discussion of how to assess decision-making capacity. The speaker will also explore legal and ethical principles at play when discussing decision-making capacity, and how a clinician can move forward when a patient makes an "unwise" decision.

BY THE END OF THIS SESSION, THE PARTICIPANT WILL BE ABLE TO:

1. Define the principles of informed consent
2. Describe the triggers for a capacity assessment
3. Discuss the ethical principles at play when assessing decision-making capacity
4. Identify complex situations that require additional system support

Course Interaction and Technical Requirements: This live webinar is fully interactive. Attendees may ask and answer questions throughout the presentation and participate in instructor-led discussions. A computer or mobile device is required. Zoom account is not required. You will receive an email approximately 24 hours prior to the start of the class with a link to the webinar.
