PRESENTED BY:

Lorna E. Segall,
PhD, MT-BC
Director of Music
Therapy at University of Louisville

Lorna E. Segall, PhD, MT-BC, holds a bachelor's degree in Vocal Performance, a master's degree in music therapy, and a PhD in Music Education with a focus on Music Therapy, all from Florida State University, where she also earned a certificate in Aging Studies. She also completed a Master's in Vocal Performance from Louisiana State University. She currently serves as director of the music therapy program at the University of Louisville.

Before transitioning to academia, Dr. Segall worked as a hospice clinician, offering bereavement services for adults, organizing grief camps for children, and facilitating Parkinson's disease support groups. Her clinical work spans hospice care, medical settings, and corrections. Her research primarily focuses on music therapy in inmate rehabilitation, intergenerational engagement, bereavement, and gerontology. A frequent presenter at regional, national, and international conferences, she continues her clinical practice, currently focusing on music therapy in corrections and in intergenerational settings.

Creative Connections Across Generations: Using Music and the Arts to Support Aging Populations and Caregivers

AGENDA

11:45 AM - 12:00 PM ET:	Log In and Virtual Networking
12:00 PM - 1:00 PM ET:	Presentation
1:00 PM ET:	Closing/Evaluation

Join us for Creative Connections Across Generations: Using Music and the Arts to Support Aging Populations and Caregivers, a presentation exploring how music and the arts can enhance the lives of young adults, older adults, and their caregivers.

In the first half of this presentation, learn about the Artist-in-Residence program, an innovative intergenerational living initiative where music students live alongside older adults in an assisted living facility, fostering deep connections through creative engagement.

In the second half, we'll delve into practical arts-based approaches—ranging from group singing and letter writing to the use of commonplace books and animatronics—that support dementia caregivers in enhancing communication and emotional well-being. This session offers practical, therapeutic tools that bridge generations and empower caregivers through the healing power of the arts.

BY THE END OF THIS SESSION, THE PARTICIPANT WILL BE ABLE TO:

1. Examine the impact of intergenerational engagement through the Artist-in-Residence program, highlighting how music fosters relationships between students and older adults in an assisted living environment.
2. Demonstrate the application of various arts and humanities—including group singing, commonplace books, animatronics, and letter writing—specifically for enhancing the well-being of dementia caregivers and their loved ones.
3. Summarize the therapeutic benefits of creative expression in promoting mental, emotional, and social health in aging populations and their caregivers, emphasizing practical techniques that can be used by healthcare professionals and caregivers alike.

Course Interaction and Technical Requirements: This live webinar is fully interactive. Attendees may ask and answer questions throughout the presentation and participate in instructor-led discussions. A computer or mobile device is required. Zoom account is not required.
