Veterinary Clinical Work for Helping Professionals: Exploring the Human-Animal Bond

AGENDA

2:45 PM - 3:00 PM ET:	Log In and Virtual Networking
3:00 PM - 4:00 PM ET:	Presentation
4:00 PM ET:	Closing/Evaluation

Explore the innovative intersection of humans and animals in this unique course on Veterinary Social Work. This class focuses on the human side of the human-animal bond, offering insight into how social work principles apply in veterinary and animal service settings. You'll dive into four key areas of this growing field:

1. Grief and Loss – Understanding the emotional impact of losing a pet and how to support clients through this difficult process.
2. The Link Between Human and Animal Violence – Examining the connection between human aggression and animal cruelty, and the role of social workers in addressing this issue.
3. Animal-Assisted Interventions – Exploring the therapeutic benefits of animals in human wellness, and how social workers can integrate animals into treatment plans.
4. Compassion Fatigue – Addressing the emotional toll on veterinary professionals and animal service workers, and strategies for managing burnout.

Throughout the course, you'll be introduced to a strengths-based perspective informed by evidence-based practices, equipping you with tools to enhance both human and animal well-being. Whether you're a current or aspiring professional in veterinary care, social work, or animal services, this course will deepen your understanding of the critical connections between humans and animals.

BY THE END OF THIS SESSION, THE PARTICIPANT WILL BE ABLE TO:

1. Examine the human-animal bond and its impact on clients experiencing pet loss and grief.
2. Identify the connection between human aggression and animal cruelty to inform intervention strategies.
3. Develop strategies to prevent and manage compassion fatigue in veterinary and animal service professionals.
